

This week's blog will be short, as time is flying by and my blog deadline approaches!

Yes, I do realize this is a self-imposed deadline but it seems if I don't stay with it before I know the next week is here. Sort of like doing dishes or laundry. My life rule is you do it all and get it finished before you move on, because if you don't, it never seems to ever get completely done! Who wants endless dishes or laundry!

I received a newsletter from the Washington State University Lewis County Extension Program and thought I would share. Some of the first pages look like they only apply to summer activities for kids but keep going. There are local activities listed, recipes, ideas for keeping food cool in summer, gardening and many other topics. Lots of great reading for Stillwaters Residents.

Enjoy!
